DAMERON

Vernon Graham Dameron Sr., 77, formerly of Hinton, died Monday, March 14, at a Brattleboro hospital following a long illness.

Born October 20, 1910, at Hinton, he was the son of the late William G. and Elsie Carter Dameron.

Mr. Dameron held a doctorate from Harvard University, was the first educational director of the National Education Association, and served as educational director of the Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village, Michigan, as professor at the University of Michigan.

He was an amateur radio operator licensed in 1932 and a member of the Phone D.X.C.C. Honor Roll.

Survivors include his wife, Edna Maloney Dameron; a son, Vernon Graham Dameron, Jr. of Bedford, Mass.; a brother, Harry Dameron of Portsmouth, Va.; a sister, Christine Foster of Hinton; and two granddaughters.

Graveside services were held Thursday March 17 at 2 p.m. at the Greenbrier Burial Park at Hinton with Rev. Gerald Dotson officiating.

There was no visitation.

The Ronald Meadows Funeral Parlors in Hinton was in charge of arrangements.
